PLAN OF GOVERNANCE OF BRYN MAWR COLLEGE

ARTICLE I GENERAL STATEMENT

Section 1. Preamble. Bryn Mawr College (the "College") requires a Plan of Governance (the "Plan") that will enable the College to achieve its mission and that is consistent with the College's philosophy expressed in its mission. The College's vitality depends on shared governance among the Board of Trustees (the "Board"), the Faculty, and the Administration in matters concerning the College's welfare, including the preservation and protection of academic freedom. Although efficient government requires that allocation of decision-making authority to various bodies be as clear as possible, the principle of shared governance requires that each body that exercises authority do so, to the extent practicable, through regularized practices of consultation. It is highly desirable that there be cooperation, consensus and mutual understanding about all important decisions affecting the College community, and it is crucial that there be consultation to promote and effect these ends. The governance of institutions of higher learning in the United States has become increasingly shared, less centralized and more complex. A system of shared governance will therefore inevitably involve overlapping authority. For example, although the Faculty has general curricular authority, its practical authority over curricular decisions with budgetary implications must be limited by the Administration in matters. This Plan recognizes that such overlapping concerns are an inevitable feature of shared governance and that their constructive resolution requires the continuing development of formal and informal processes of consultation beyond those specifically outlined in this Plan. The aim of this Plan is to delineate authority and to establish decision-making processes that reflect the principle of maintaining close cooperation, consultation and communication with the Students, the Staff, the Alumnae/i and the other members of the College community. The relationships among the Board, the Faculty and the Administration and their relationships with the Students, the Staff, the Alumnae/i and the other members of the College community are the subject of this Plan.

Section 2. Schools. The College consists of three schools (the "Schools"): the Undergraduate College, the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences (the "GSAS") and the Graduate School of Social Work and Social Research (the "GSSWR"). The governance of each School will be guided by the principles set forth in Article I, Section 1 of this Plan. The Undergraduate College shall have a Dean and such Associate and Assistant Deans as may be appropriate. There shall be a Dean of Graduate Studies for the graduate schools and a Dean of the Graduate School of Social Work and Social Research. The Faculty will have the rights, responsibilities, and obligations described in Article III of this Plan with respect to each School.

Section 3. Consultation with Regard to Appointments and Reviews. In appointing persons to the following offices the following appointing body or person will consult with the following consulted body (or a committee containing, among its members, persons appointed by that body) and person:

Office	Appointing Body or Person	Consulted Body and Person
President	Board	Faculty, Students and Staff
Provost	President	Faculty
Dean of the Undergraduate College	President	Faculty, Provost and Students
Dean of Graduate Studies	President	Faculty, Provost and Students

3-year review of the members of the Senior Administration whose positions are provided for in this Plan, the Faculty committee with jurisdiction and the Appointments Committee responsible for soliciting comments from the Faculty and for communicating these comments either individually (in which case the comments may be anonymous at the request of the individual Faculty member) or in a summary report to the President. Individual members of the Faculty may also submit comments directly to the President. The comments transmitted by the appointments committee and by individual Faculty members will be considered in the course of the review.

Section 4. Representation and Responsibility of Representatives. Except and to the extent otherwise specified in this Plan, each body has the authority to determine those who shall represent it. Persons who are consulted are responsible for accurately reflecting, to the best of their ability, the views of their constituents and for reporting in a timely manner to their constituents. The College's policy is to promote consultation among the Board, the Faculty, the Administration, the Students, the Staff, the Alumnae/i and the other members of the College community to the greatest extent practicable. However, in limited circumstances, confidentiality is necessary to a fair and efficient decision-making process and will be established by the interested parties. Following the adoption of this Plan and from time to time thereafter, representatives of the Faculty and of the Administration will meet to discuss the principles of confidentiality.
